APPLETONS' BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG

D. APPLETON AND COMPANY present the following Holiday juvenile publications. The list includes books on patriotism, narratives of travel, adventure, recreation, school sports and the sea:

"Stroke, stroke,
Our crew is at the start."

AND Ralph Henry Barbour's book, "Captain of the Crew" ($1.20 net), is at the start of the long list of books we have made for young people. Ask anybody who has read "For the Honor of the School" ($1.50), or, "The Half Back" ($1.50), by the same author, if they want the new one for Christmas.

MANY a boy who loves to read a Barbour book is just as happy studying birds. Boys, and girls, too, will appreciate "In the Days of Audubon" ($1.20 net) by Butterworth. This is the latest of a notable series by this author.

WOULDN'T you like to have been in Tad Lincoln's place and heard his father, Abraham Lincoln, tell stories? Well, "Lincoln in Story" is the next best thing. A book of authentic stories by and about the martyred President by S. G. Pratt. (75 cents net.)

NEXT to Lincoln is Uncle Sam himself. His Secrets, His Flag, His Navy, and His Soldiers are all described interestingly in a series of four volumes called "The Uncle Sam Series." ($3.50.) Easy governmental information for youngsters, that's about it.

NINE books about as many boys at sea, from young Paul Jones to Dewey; "The Young Heroes of Our Navy." The books are sold separately, however ($1.00 each), and there is no make believe about them.

BY the way, "A Sailor's Log," by Rear-Admiral Robley D. Evans, is a first-rate book for boys, and also for somewhat older ones. ($2.00.)

BOYS and girls ought to be interested in Old New York, and whoever reads "A Landmark History of New York" will be. It points out just where the great events in the city's history took place. ($1.50.)

QUAINT old plantation days and ways are described in the two books by Joel Chandler Harris, familiar, always fresh, "Uncle Remus" ($2.00) and "On the Plantation" ($1.50).

HOW easily an intelligent and sympathetic story teller can win his way with children, and that is just what David Starr Jordan, President of Stanford University, has done in giving us his string of stories in "The Book of Knight and Barbara." ($1.50.)

THE GREAT HIGHWAY

THE WANDERINGS AND ADVENTURES OF A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

BY JAMES CREELMAN

Price, $1.20 net; postpaid, $1.35

T. DE WITT TALMAGE, D.D., SAYS:

"A BOOK dramatic and unique. No other man could have written it, because he entered doors that no one else could enter. Pathos and humor and vivid portraiture of character abound."

HALL CAINE SAYS in an interesting letter to a friend:

"I HAVE read with a great deal of pleasure James Creelman's stirring book. The picture he presents of his visit to the Vatican is admirably faithful to the atmosphere of the great house as I know it." Again he says: "There cannot be a more sympathetic reader of Tolstoy than myself, but nowhere have I seen the essential sophism on which his great mind is built more plainly revealed than in these pages of conversation."

MAX O'RELL SAYS:

"A MOST stirring book, a work full of electric power. It contains the experiences of a most adventurous and extraordinary life, told with great force and in a brilliant, sparkling style, full of humor and philosophy."

JULIAN RALPH SAYS:

"THE special correspondent is to-day's knight-errant, and Creelman has long carried his plume in the van of the adventurous band. In his book we read of a life as strongly contrasted with the lives of the millions of men as was the career of Jeanne d'Arc when the mass of women were men's chattels."

JULIAN HAWTHORNE SAYS:

"IT is memorable both as literature and as contemporary history. Nothing else in the same line so authoritative, so pertinent, so vivid, and so fascinating, has been published within my knowledge."

W. T. STEAD SAYS:

"YOUR book is as fascinating as any of the adventures which thrilled me in my boyhood, for in your case the simple record of fact is as exciting as romance."

GEORGE W. CABLE SAYS:

"THE wonderful charm of actuality is in every page. To be so romantically entertaining, yet deal wholly with facts, and to reward the serious enquirer at the same time with so much information — food for reflection, stimulation, and guidance — is a great gift, and also a great achievement."

CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD SAYS:

"ANY one who imagines the days of knight-errantry and derring-do are past should read James Creelman's 'On the Great Highway,' and revise his theories. In all his pages there is the same dash and abounding vitality."

MAIL AND EXPRESS, N.Y., SAYS:

"ALL that attracts any reader to the romances of Hope, Weyman, and Parker is in this volume. The book is the nearest thing to magic, the closest to a fairy tale, which this practical and material age can produce; and the deepening wonder you feel as you read it is due to the fact that the magic is substantial and the fairy tale is truth."

LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY, BOSTON

J. DEVLIN-BOSS

By FRANCIS CHURCHILL WILLIAMS Illustrated by CLIFFORD CARLETON Price, $1 50

SECRETARY OF STATE JOHN HAY SAYS:
"I have read it with much interest."

ADMIRAL ROBLY D. EVANS SAYS:
"In this book you have presented, in a most masterly way, pure American character true to life, and I admire them all; but above all I must put J. Devlin-Boss. I wish every American boy could read the book. I am sure the country would be the better if they would."

A Carolina Cavalier

By GEORGE CARY EGGLESTON Six Drawings by C. D. WILLIAMS Price, $1.50

BALTIMORE SUN SAYS:
"This wholesome, cheerful story is well worth reading. It will stir the pulse and call forth sentiment if read for pleasure. It is replete with adventure. It is saturated with love."

PHILADELPHIA HOME ADVOCATE SAYS:
"As a love story, A Carolina Cavalier is sweet and true; but, as a patriotic novel, it is grand and inspiring. We have seldom found a stronger and simpler appeal to our manhood and love of country."

A Princess of the Hills

By Mrs. BURTON HARRISON Four Illustrations by ORSON LOWELL Price, $1.50

THE DELINEATOR:
"IT was a hazardous thing for Mrs. Harrison to leave modern New York, with its complicated, artificial social life, to the description of which her pen is so wedded, and to enter the world of romance pure and simple; but so well has she accomplished this difficult feat one is lost in admiration of it and delight in the book."

CALEB WRIGHT

By JOHN HABBERTON, Author of "HELEN'S BABIES," etc. Price, $1.50

PHILADELPHIA TIMES SAYS:
"Caleb Wright is an admirable and most interesting figure. Full of shrewd philosophy and homely common sense, he is a congener of David Harum and Eben Holden, and, truth to tell, suffers little by the comparison."

When the Land was Young

By LAFAYETTE McLAWS Six Drawings by WILL CRAWFORD Price, $1.50

HEZEKIAH BUTTERWORTH SAYS:
"True historical fiction makes the past live again in Miss McLaws' romance, 'When the Land was Young.' The plot is original, strong, realistic, and a work of genius, and the style of the work commensurate with the dramatic events. The romance enters a new field, of which this Southern writer is the master. It is one of the most powerful interpretations of provincial history in recent fiction."

NOTES IN SEASON.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have extended the time for competing for the prizes offered for the best canvasses of two of their books until January 1, 1902.

CASSELL & COMPANY will publish at once "A Masque of Days," from the "Last Essays of Elia," with 40 full-page designs in color, by Walter Crane; also "Marine Painting in Color," by W. L. Wyllie, with 24 plates in color, facsimiles of Mr. Wyllie's water colors.

J. S. OGILVIE PUBLISHING CO. announce "Letters of Mildred's Mother to Mildred," by E. D. Price, better known, probably, as "The Man Behind the Scenes." The book embodies a series of humorous sketches of stage life which satirize the famous Elizabeth letters.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish shortly Thomas Hardy's volume of verse under the title of "Poems of the Past and the Present." It was originally announced as "Poems of Feeling, Dream and Deed." On account of the length of time required properly to prepare the many colored plates of Mr. Birch's charming illustrations of Robert W. Chambers's book for children, "Outdoorland," and rather than issue the volume hurriedly, Harper & Brothers have decided to postpone the publication until 1902.

D. APPLETON & CO. have just brought out in their International Education Series, a volume on "Student Life and Customs," by Dr. Henry D. Sheldon, Professor in the University of Oregon; also a volume entitled "An Ideal School, or, looking forward," by Preston W. Search, Honorary Fellow in Clark University, etc. They have also just issued a work by H. G. Seeley on the pterodactyl entitled "Dragons of the Air," which has a special value for American readers on account of the remarkable discoveries in the United States and the collections in our museums.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY are the American publishers of an important work on "The Care of Books: an essay on the development of libraries and their fittings, from the earliest times to the end of the eighteenth century," by John Willis Clarke. Numerous illustrations show the development of the library, from the simple lectern with a bookcupboard through systems of lecterns attached to standing cases, to the completed alcove. The differentiation of book stack from reading-room, which, like other changes, has been due to the increase in the ratio of books to readers, falls without the scope of the volume. While the main issue—the housing of books—is held steadily in view, there is much incidental information about book-making and reading in all periods.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & CO. have just brought out in two very handsome volumes "Dames and Daughters of Colonial Days and of the Young Republic," by Miss Geraldine Brooks, the talented daughter of E. S. Brooks the well-known writer of books for young people. One of the volumes of the set was published last year; the other is new this year, and contains well-written narrative sketches of "Dolly" Madison, Sarah Jay, wife of John Jay; Theodosia Burr, daughter of Aaron Burr; Elizabeth Patterson, wife of Prince Jerome Bonaparte; Martha Jefferson, daughter of Thomas Jefferson; Rachel Jackson, wife of Andrew Jackson; Dorothy Hancock, wife of John Hancock; and Emily Marshall, familiarly known as "the beautiful Emily Marshall." The volumes which form an appropriate gift for a young woman, are printed on paper of an excellent quality, with illustrations by Ogden and Copeland reproduced in photogravure printed by hand.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Bigelow, Mrs. Poultney. While Charlie was away. N. Y., Appleton, 1901. c. 2+166 p. S. cl., 75 c.

Mrs. Bigelow tells a vivid story of a woman in London "smart" life whose hunger for love involves her in perils, but finds a true way out in the end. Her tale is remarkable for its picture of the feverish craving for excitement, the constant demands of a vanity that fears a loss of attractiveness, and the pathetic underlying desire for real love that are so cleverly suggested in the leading character and illustrated in other figures of the London social environment.

Brooks, Geraldine. Dames and daughters of the young Republic; il. by H. A. Ogden. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1901.] c. 6+287 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The popularity of Miss Brooks' "Dames and daughters of colonial days" led to the request that the author prepare a companion volume dealing with the period immediately following the Revolutionary war. This she has done in a series of eight delightful sketches of celebrated women, like Dolly Madison, Martha Jefferson, Elizabeth Patterson (Madame Bonaparte) and Dorothy Hancock. The papers are not intended in any degree as prosaic biographies of their subjects, but are entertaining side-lights thrown upon them and the well-known people with whom they came in contact.

Written to aid the dog fancier in the direction in which aid is most needed. First through pictures from life of typical dogs, showing the proper conformation of the breed concerning which he desires enlightenment. Next—he is given the standard as adopted by the Specialty Club, which is supposed to minutely and scientifically describe in comprehensive language what the perfect specimen should be. Then —the author finishes with what he terms "Comments," which is little else than a description of what is to be avoided in the conformation of the animal, and the filling up of omissions in the standard. Mr. Huntington is the author of "My dog and I" and late president of the National Greyhound Club of America.

From Schenectady to Rome, every town has its romantic story of the French wars or the revolution, every bit of woodland has its wealth of prehistoric legend. Many characters of national interest figure prominently in this record of the Mohawk Valley, while warlike Indians, black-robed Jesuits, French officers and early English settlers—the picturesque population of the valley a century ago—live again in its pages. Photographs and sketches of persons, places and events profusely illustrate the volume and aid the imagination of the reader who knows and loves the valley of to-day.

The principal events are founded on historical facts. In the year 1493, in a remote part of the Styrian Alps, the little village of Tragos was excommunicated from the Catholic church and outlawed for a crime committed by one member of the parish. Describes the unhappy period through which the inhabitants passed; their God having been taken from them, they were ruled by their own misguided natures.

"Chinese characteristics" and "Village life in China," Mr. Smith's former works, have already put him in the forefront of writers on that empire. In this book he traces the Boxer movement to its origin, describes its development and outbreak, and reviews its aftermath in transformed cities and new opportunities. He gives the story of the siege, unique in its danger and heroism; pays a tribute to the martyrs, foreign and Chinese, and makes a clear statement of what must be if China is not to imperil the safety of the world.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

DECEMBER 7, 1901.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

POSTAL REFORM.

THE President in his message calls attention to the salient fact that, while second-class matter constitutes three-fifths of the weight of all mail, it contributes to the postal revenues but $4,294,445 out of the $111,631,193 revenue, or something over three per cent., and suggests that as one-half of this material is supposed to be outside the purpose of Congress in promoting the public need of dissemination of information, more strict legislation or regulation is necessary against other than legitimate periodicals—a question which is, of course, more fully covered and discussed in the report of the Postmaster-General.

It has been the misfortune of the policy of the Post-Office Department that, instead of settling this question on broad lines, it has endeavored to provide against periodicals not entitled to the low second-class rates by an infinite number of infinitesimal regulations which have seriously embarrassed "legitimate" newspapers and periodicals. Regulations of this minute sort are sure to be varied from time to time as new cases arise, and as there is now no authoritative publication of Post-Office rulings publishers are subject at any moment to the rejection of an issue as second-class matter because of some new provision of the Post-Office Department of which they were necessarily ignorant. The New York Post-Office, and, we presume, other post-offices at publishing centres, have done their best to mitigate this difficulty by informing publishers from time to time of new decisions bearing upon their interests; but it does not seem to have been practicable to do this fully or adequately. The result is not merely that a publisher is charged eight times as much postage as he would have paid under second-class rates, but that he is put to the trouble and delay, as well as expense, of handling wholesale mail matter individually by stamping each piece.

The Department seems now to be endeavoring to take a broader course in investigating carefully publications which are on the border line, and excluding rigorously those which prove to be beyond the extent of the law. This policy should be logically supplemented by removing from "legitimate" periodicals the heavy hands of departmental authority as to what they should do and should not do in the matter of headings, pagination, and other infinitesimal details with which the Department now essays to deal. These regulations do no good; instead of excluding "illegitimate" publications they prove traps to the legitimate publisher; and they involve great wear and tear and no little expenditure of time and money on the part of Post-Office officials in the vigilance for which they call. A broader policy on the part of the Department, carried to its logical conclusions, would do no harm but would accomplish general good.

THE SIX BEST-SELLING BOOKS. OCTOBER-NOVEMBER.

ACCORDING to The Bookman, the six books which have sold best in the order of demand from October 10 to November 10 are

	POINTS.
1. The Right of Way. Parker. Harper.	324
2. The Crisis. Churchill. Macmillan...	166
3. The Eternal City. Caine. Appleton..	122
4. D'ri and I. Bacheller. Lothrop.....	111
5. Kim. Kipling. Doubleday, Page & Co.....	105
6. Lazarre. Catherwood. Bowen-Merrill Co.....	82

THE readers of the London Academy have decided that the following are the twelve best novels published in the first ten months of the year, and it is of some interest to note that the list is not entirely devoid of American titles: "Kim," "History of Sir Richard Calmady," "The Eternal City," "Tristram of Blent," "The Serious Wooing," "The Right of Way," "The Benefactress," "Sister Teresa," "The Column," "The Octopus," "The Crisis," and "New Canterbury Tales."

JOHN LANE ON THE LITERARY OUTLOOK.

JOHN LANE of the Bodley Head, who has been in this country for some time, has prepared for the New York Journal an opinion of "The Literary Outlook from the Standpoint of a Publisher," from which we take the following extracts:

"Having recently come from England, it is strange to notice the similarity of present circumstances on both sides of the water; both nations are terminating (let us hope!) a protracted campaign, and in both cases, despite the croakers, the effect upon the reading world has been identical: It has given healthy stimulus. And in what direction? A severe blow has been dealt upon the pate of the vapid. On both sides the reading public demands: (1) in fiction the telling, the clever, the pregnant; (2) in general literature the healthy, the trenchant, the true; (3) in poetry the real, the convinced, the inspired. The keynote of the demand is: 'Of new work, whatever its class, let us have the real thing;' revive for us the old where it surpasses the new.

"As a publisher whose particular aim it is to keep touch upon the literary pulse common to New York and London, and whose endeavor it is to meet the requirements of reciprocal or identical literary interests vibrating along the current lines of thought on both sides, this season marks a period in business annals which is of acute significance.

"Firstly, I say, the reading public is demanding in fiction the telling, the clever, the suggestive. In politics, jingoism, with its accompanying hysteria, has been ousted; and in its stead has arisen the desire for a scientific basis whereon to ground practical good-feeling between the old country and the new. . . .

"Secondly, the public is demanding more than ever the good and the healthy in literature. We note the response in the penetrative logical criticism, alone hailed with appreciation, of our Frederic Harrisons and of our William Archers. We note it also in the unprecedented call for nature books—books of gardening, animal life, outdoor pursuits—breathing health, mental and physical. We note it again in the respectful reception of every honest contribution to the search for philosophical and religious truth—whether it be found latent in the verse of a soi-distant atheist Omar Khayyam (most God-loving of men), or apparent in the writings of so other-minded a prophetess as the Theosophist, Annie Besant. Their foreheads are marked with the same sign; their work makes toward the same goal—the finding of truth and knowledge.

"Thirdly, the reading public decides that in art as in science only the really inspired, the spontaneously convinced, shall be accepted. . . . Incidentally, I may here record a return to a proper appreciation for the fitness of 'externals,' the bookmaker's craft. Binding and cover design, title-page and type, paper and page, all these things must nowadays be fitted, in their infinite variety, to harmonize with the style and subject of the book.

"Lastly, says the great unswerving public, let us in literature revive the old wherever it surpasses the new. The tide has begun to turn from the sickly sentimental of the characteristic fin de siecle novel, and has set for the wholesome work of Anthony Trollope, Thomas Love Peacock, George Borrow, Jane Austen, Maria Edgeworth—aye, in the more caustic tastes of cynicism and satire, even to Swift and Sterne.

"And so we find that in the Anglo-Saxon worlds the epoch which has witnessed the severities of the sword has also swept ruthlessly away the vapid, the rotten, the hysterical and the ecstatic in that other great champ de bataille—the field of literature. For the nonce, at any rate, reason is triumphant; the public voice proclaims breadth of sympathy for all that be real and sincere; condemns the criticism that depreciates one side with the sole view of appreciating the other, and the argument which grossly exaggerates with the blind hope of establishing itself by a coup de force. The keynote of to-day's liberality is to deprecate the narrowness which believes that where two tastes are in conflict one of the two must be at fault!

"What, then, is our literary outlook to-day? Briefly, and without undue Utopianism, it may be said that we are emerging from a state of incubation which bids fair to result in an age of literature unique in its power to weld the soundness of the classic ideal with the enlightenment of the modern idea."

THE POSTMASTER GENERAL ON SECOND-CLASS MAIL MATTER.

POSTMASTER GENERAL CHARLES EMORY SMITH made public his annual report for the year ended June 30, 1901. Half of it is devoted to the abuses of second-class mail matter and the other half to rural free delivery, increase of revenue, service in Cuba and the Philippines, ocean mail service, pneumatic-tube service, parcels post, money-order department, service in Alaska, automobile tests, electric-car service, registry division, suppression of fraud, and the legislation needed.

The total receipts of the department amounted to $111,631,193.39; total expenditures, $115,554,920.87, and the excess of expenditures over receipts, $3,923,727.48, the deficit being $1,461,961.22 less than last year.

"The most urgent need of the postal service is the rectification of the enormous wrongs which have grown up in the perversion and abuse of the privilege accorded by the law to second-class matter," says Mr. Smith. "It is the most urgent need because it aims at the one great overshadowing evil of the service, and because it underlies and overtops all other reforms and advance. It would relieve the department from the one oppressive burden which cripples and weighs it down, and which stands as a constant and formidable barrier against improvement and progress." Continuing the report reads:

"In dividing mail matter into four classes the law provides that newspapers and periodicals coming within the conditions it prescribes shall constitute the second-class with a postage rate of 1 cent per pound. All other printed matter, including books, circulars, and advertising sheets, constitutes the third class, with a postage rate of 1 cent for two ounces. The law defines the characteristics which shall distinguish and determine second-class matter, and it intends to limit the privilege and benefit of the pound rate to legitimate newspapers and periodicals which fulfil these statutory requirements. But, thousands of publications, which are in reality books or purely advertising sheets or gift enterprises, and which the law never meant to include within the second-class, have crept in through evasions and loose constructions, until this abuse has grown to colossal proportions and imposes a burden of many millions of dollars on the Government and the people."

The second-class matter, according to the report, constitutes nearly 60 per cent. of the weight of the entire mail of the country, but during the last year it has paid only one twenty-eighth part of the revenue. To get the best idea of what proportion of the total expense should be paid by the second-class matter Superintendents of the railway mail service and thirty Postmasters of representative cities were asked for their opinions. The Superintendents answered 35 per cent. The Postmasters varied but little in their answers from 20 per cent.

Of the law on second-class matter Mr. Smith writes:

The intent of the law is clear from its terms. It seeks to define boundaries and to prescribe conditions which shall limit the privilege to the kind of publications really designed to be included. First of all, it provides that to be entitled to the second-class rate the publication must be "originated and published for the dissemination of information of a public character, or devoted to literature, the sciences, arts, or some special industry." The law further requires that the publications must have "a legitimate list of subscribers," and adds the proviso that nothing in its terms "shall be so construed as to admit to the second-class rate regular publications designed primarily for advertising purposes, or for free circulation, or for circulation at nominal rates."

Little by little the limitations have been relaxed, and every transgression has been made the pretext and precedent for another. Many of the publications once entered have changed their character since admission, and, if at first entitled to the pound rate, have by this departure forfeited their original right.

The volume of second-class matter has doubled in the last ten years, 4985 publications being admitted last year—3322 new and 1663 old ones in new form. Of this mass of second-class matter it is estimated that one-half did not come within the meaning of the law, and hence was not entitled to the pound rate.

As the matter now stands, the Government is carrying 200,000,000 pounds of mail matter at 1 cent per pound, for which it should receive the third-class rate of 8 cents, thus involving a direct loss of $8,000,000, which is three times the amount of the postal deficit of last year.

The President in his message referring to the Post-Office Department says:

"The remarkable growth of the postal service is shown in the fact that its revenues have doubled and its expenditures have nearly doubled within twelve years. Its progressive development compels constantly increasing outlay, but in this period of business energy and prosperity its receipts grow so much faster than its expenses that the annual deficit has been steadily reduced from $11,411,779 in 1897 to $3,923,727 in 1901. Among recent postal advances the success of rural free delivery wherever established has been so marked, and actual experience has made its benefits so plain, that the demand for its extension is general and urgent.

"It is just that the great agricultural population should share in the improvement of the service. The number of rural routes now in operation is 6009, practically all established within three years, and there are 6000 applications awaiting action. It is expected that the number in operation at the close of the current fiscal year will reach 8600. The mail will then be daily carried to the doors of 5,700,000 of our people who have heretofore been dependent upon distant offices, and one-third of all that portion of the country which is adapted to it will be covered by this kind of service.

"The full measure of postal progress which might be realized has long been hampered and obstructed by the heavy burden imposed on the Government through the intrenched and well-understood abuses which have grown up in connection with second-class mail matter. The extent of this burden appears when it is stated that while the second-class matter makes nearly three-fifths of the weight of all the mail, it paid for the last fiscal year only $4,294,445 of the aggregate postal revenue of $111,631,193. If the pound rate of postage, which produces the large loss thus entailed and which was fixed by Congress with the purpose of encouraging the dissemination of public information, were limited to the legitimate newspapers and periodicals actually contemplated by the law, no just exception could be taken. That expense would be the recognized and accepted cost of a liberal public policy deliberately adopted for a justifiable end. But much of the matter which enjoys the privileged rate is wholly outside of the intent of the law, and has secured admission only through an evasion of its requirements or through lax construction. The proportion of such wrongly included matter is estimated by postal experts to be one-half of the whole volume of second-class mail. If it be only one-third of one-quarter, the magnitude of the burden is apparent. The Post-Office Department has now undertaken to remove the abuses so far as is possible by a stricter application of the law, and it should be sustained in its effort."

Rural free delivery, the report states, has advanced materially, the extension during the past year having been nearly three times as great as the whole amount of service previously established. The number of routes at the beginning of the fiscal year was 1276. On December 1, 6000 routes will be in operation

THE PRESIDENT ON THE LIBRARY SYSTEM OF THE UNITED STATES

We quote the following from President Roosevelt's message regarding the development of the public library system in the United States, and the growth, work and possibilities of the Library of Congress:

Perhaps the most characteristic educational movement of the past fifty years is that which has created the modern public library and developed it into broad and active service. There are now over 5000 public libraries in the United States, the product of this period. In addition to accumulating material, they are also striving by organization, by improvement in method, and by co-operation, to give greater efficiency to the material they hold, to make it more widely useful, and by avoidance of unnecessary duplication in process to reduce the cost of its administration.

In these efforts they naturally look for assistance to the Federal library, which, though still the Library of Congress, and so entitled, is the one National Library of the United States. Already the largest single collection of books on the Western Hemisphere, and certain to increase more rapidly than any other through purchase, exchange, and the operation of the copyright law, this library has a unique opportunity to render to the libraries of this country—to American scholarship—service of the highest importance. It is housed in a building which is the largest and most magnificent yet erected for library uses. Resources are now being provided which will develop the collection properly, equip it with the apparatus and service necessary to its effective use, render its bibliographic work widely available, and enable it to become, not merely a centre of research, but the chief factor in great co-operative efforts for the diffusion of knowledge and the advancement of learning.

SALE OF THE McKEE LIBRARY.

About $23,550 was realized from the two days' sale of Part IV. of the library of the late Thomas Jefferson McKee, the sale coming to an end on the evening of the 3d inst. in the auction room of John Anderson, Jr., 20 West Thirtieth Street, New York. There were 548 lots, and the average price was $43.

The highest price fetched at the last night's sale was $1925, paid by Dodd, Mead & Co. for Shakespeare's "The Rape of Lucrece, newly revised and printed by I. B. for Roger Jackson," London, 1624. It is a very rare edition, and the price realized is said to be a record price. A copy sold in London in May, 1866, for £54.

Mr. Chatto, of London, secured "Poems Written by Wil. Shakespeare," London, 1640, for $1250, the second highest price of the two days' sale.

Some of the other books sold and the prices paid are as follows:

Chapman's Iliad—"Seaven Bookes of the Iliades of Homere," London, 1598. $860.

Chapman's "Shadow of Night," London, 1594. $380. This same copy sold in 1815 for £25.

"Euthymiæ Raptus," London, 1609. $280.

Sir William Alexander's "Recreation of the Muses," 1637. $760.

Gawin Douglas's translation of the "XII Bokes of the Eneados," 1553. $250.

Allot's "England's Parnassus," 1600. $230.

Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy," the first edition, 1621. $200.

Decameron—the first English edition, 1620. $310.

N. Hookes's "Amanda, A Sacrifice to an Unknown Goddesse," London, 1653, first edition, small 8vo, book plate of Charles B. Foote. $260.

"The Essayes of a Prentise in the Divine Art of Poesie," by James I. of England, 4to, first edition, "imprinted at Edinburgh by Thomas Vautroullier, 1584." $510.

Shakespeare's "Venus and Adonis," London, 1675. $450. This is an excessively rare book. The only copies quoted by Hazlitt and Lowndes are the Malone, in the Bodleian Library, which lacks the title-page, and the Nassau, sold in 1824. The McKee copy is the Nassau one.

James Shirley's "Poems," first edition, London, 1646. $142.50.

Spenser's "The Faerie Queene," two volumes, first edition. $260.

Spenser's "Complaints, Containing Sundrie Small Poems of the World's Vanitie," London, 1591. $230.

Isaac Walton's "The Compleat Angler," the second edition, much enlarged, London, 1655. $300.

A number of English collectors were represented at the sale, and a larger number of the rarer items than ever before were secured for English private libraries.

The McKee Library sale will no doubt hold its place in the memory of the collector for some time to come on account of its excellent catalogue. When it is considered that the description of the 546 lots sold occupy some 240 pages it may be taken for granted that each lot was fully catalogued. Every detail was enumerated with a minuteness quite exceptional even in private catalogues of books. For sale purposes many of the books may no doubt have been over-catalogued, but no bibliographer or collector will complain. For that very reason the catalogue will always take high rank among auction catalogues.

A MAYENCE PSALTER IN AMERICA.

It is reported that Mr. John Pierpont Morgan has acquired the copy of Mayence "Psalter"—the impression of 1459—which was listed some years ago by Quaritch at £5250. The "Psalter," it will be recalled, is the first printed book with a date, having been brought out by Fust and Schoeffer August 14, 1457, and reprinted from the same types in 1459, in 1490 and in 1502. Of the second impression twelve are known to exist, eleven of them being the property of the great public libraries of Europe. It is assumed that the total number of this sumptuous edition, which was probably made for the Benedictine Abbey of St. James at Mentz, did not exceed twenty. The glory of the edition is its large initial letters cut in wood and admirably printed in red and blue. The book is printed on vellum in large missal type manufactured by Peter Schoeffer, and has 136 leaves with twenty-six or twenty-three lines to the full page. Mr. Morgan's copy which is said to be well preserved measures 17 x 14 9-16 inches. It was first known in the library of Sir John Sykes; then it passed to Sir John Hayford Thorold, at the sale of whose library Quaritch bought it.

KIPLING'S FIRST EDITIONS.

"ELEVEN years ago," says a writer in the New York Sun, "when Andrew Lang said in the preface of a little volume, containing 'The Courting of Dinah Shadd' and five other of Kipling's tales, that he did not anticipate for Mr. Kipling a very popular popularity, he probably did not expect either that within a few years the first edition of Kipling's works would be worth $6000, the sum paid this year by a Chicago collector for a complete set of his books as first issued. Still another set has just been privately sold to a New York collector for a sum said closely to approach that figure, and Luther S. Livingstone, of New York City, whose bibliographical knowledge of Kipling's works is most intimate, has compiled and printed for this bibliophile in a limited edition of seventy-seven copies a catalogue of his possessions. These include forty-four books, nine pages of comical pencil drawings, two manuscripts and the school books used by Kipling, when at Westward Ho, Bideford, England.

"The other collection contained sixty books, some of them revised editions, etc., and one manuscript, 'The Legend of the Cedar Swamp,' written when the author was 9 years old and signed 'J. R. Kipling.'

"No other author ever had such early bibliographical fame. Literary fame and bibliographical fame have always been two distinct things before the nineteenth century and indeed until Kipling's time. The first editions of Shakespeare, Milton, Ben Jonson and Spencer were disregarded in the auction room until the end of the eighteenth century and those of Shelley, Keats, Tennyson and the two Brownings were looked at with unappreciative eyes until fifteen years ago. To Kipling literary and bibliographical fame came together.

"Scarcely had the 'Departmental Ditties' and 'Plain Tales from the Hills' been reprinted in England and America in all kinds of editions when collectors began to collect his works. First of all they searched for copies of a small octavo volume called 'Schoolboy Lyrics,' Kipling's first book, printed for private circulation by his father at Lahore, India, in 1881. One copy that turned up came to New York, where most book-treasures usually come nowadays and was sold at private sale for about $500. Only two or three copies were said to exist at that time.

"Early in 1899 another was sold at Sotheby's in London for the record price of £135. This was without the brown paper covers, but a blank leaf before the title-page contained a drawing by John Lockwood Kipling, the author's father. A few months later in the same year three more copies turned up, two bringing £100 each and one £76. One had been presented by Kipling's mother to a friend and bore this inscription: 'Jeanie from Alice,' and a second example was given to 'Major A. Harcourt' by 'J. L. Kipling.' The latter is the copy in the fine collection recently sold to a New York collector.

"A fifth copy was sold in July, 1899, for £90. The price has been since depreciated somewhat, and one copy, in miserable condition, has fetched a low sum, thereby creating the belief that the Kipling boom was over. The depreciation, however, has been partly due to the fact that the market was suddenly flooded with copies, and some persons have been led to believe that the book was less rare than it was said to be. It is now known that only fifty copies were printed at the Civil and Military Press at Lahore and were mostly given away by Kipling's parents to their friends. Some of these have met the fate of the majority of privately issued books and a few, it is rumored, have been destroyed by Kipling himself.

"The volume contains twenty-three poems, twenty-two of which can be found by the curious in 'Early Verse,' part of the Outward Bound edition of his works. The one exception is 'The Night Before,' which describes the reflections of a criminal the night before his execution.

"The second item in the Kipling list is The United Services College Chronicle, his college paper, Bideford, Devon, 1878-94, of which he edited Nos. IV. to X., and to many issues of which he contributed. No. IV., dated June 30, 1881, contains an editorial announcement by Kipling, which is apparently his first printed piece of prose. There were 200 boys at the college when Kipling attended, and each of these received one copy. Only a few complete sets are now in existence. One of these has fetched £101 at auction.

"In 1884 Kipling printed in India his second book, 'Echoes: By Two Writers,' the other author being his sister Beatrice. 'Echoes' contains thirty-nine poems, seven of which are attributed to Beatrice Kipling. Most of these are parodies of certain celebrated poems. The book is now quite rare, and a copy was once sold for $250. Copies are worth less now, but a good copy will easily bring half that sum. Kipling sent one copy to his Alma Mater, inscribed 'To My very noble and approved good masters.'

"In 1885 appeared the 'Quartette, the Christmas Annual of the Civil and Military Gazette by Four Anglo-Indian Writers,' the four authors being Kipling, his father, mother and sister. This volume is notable for its literary interest as well as for its rarity, as it contains 'The Strange Ride of Morrowbie Jukes,' and 'The Phantom Rickshaw.'

"The next year, 1886, saw the publication of the book that brought Kipling his first taste of fame—the 'Departmental Ditties and Other Verses.' The first edition contained twenty-six poems, taken from the files of the Gazette. This has been described by Kipling as his 'first book,' which it certainly is, in the sense of its being his first book published in a regular way, the two others having appeared for private use. The second edition contained additional ditties and the author added others to the third edition, and finally the book came to London with a 'gilt top and a stiff back' as Kipling once said. But he always loved it best, he wrote, when it roughly appeared in a narrow octavo form, before its author 'lay awake of nights plotting and scheming how to write something that should "take" with the English public.'

"Scarce, but not especially valuable, are his other Indian books, 'Soldiers Three,' which introduced the three Musketeers—Mulvaney, Ortheris and Learoyd; 'The Story of the Gadsbys,' 'In Black and White,' 'Under the Deodars,' 'The Phantom Rickshaw and Other Eerie Tales,' 'Wee Willie Winkie and Other Child Stories,' all issued in Wheeler's Indian Railway Library in 1888 at one rupee each; 'The City of Dreadful Night,' 1891, and 'Letters of Marque,' 1891.

"After Kipling left India and his fame was rapidly increasing, his Indian publishers brought together in two volumes some minor pieces, first contributed to newspapers there. One of these bore the title of 'The City of Dreadful Night and Other Sketches,' and the other was 'The Smith Administration.' Each was suppressed, only two or three copies surviving, and in consequence the two books are now of great value. The first of the two was issued later with a different title.

"Another suppressed and highly-prized book is 'Letters of Marque,' volume I., the first London edition, 1891, publication of which was stopped by Kipling, his contention being that the articles, having originally been written for Indian newspapers, carried no right to issue in book form. The whole edition, therefore, consisting of 15,000 copies, was sent to the paper mill and pulped. Only three copies escaped. One of these was later secured by Albert J. Morgan, of New York City, and when his library was sold at private sale, was purchased with his other Kipling items, by George M. Williamson."

THE ENGLISH DICTIONARY OF NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY.

Sidney Lee has sent to the London Times a letter which he has received from King Edward congratulating him on the final completion of that great work, "The Dictionary of National Biography." His Majesty says he has been greatly struck by the ability and research displayed by the writers, as well as by the admirable and careful editing.

The idea of publishing a dictionary of national biography that should be a record of all the men and women who have attained prominence in the British dominions from the earliest times originated in the brain of the late George Smith, of Smith, Elder & Co., who died last April. It was in 1882, according to the memoir of Mr. Smith that appeared in the first volume of the supplement to the dictionary, that he resolved to embark on "a new and final enterprise, which proved a fitting crown to his spirited career." At first he contemplated producing a cyclopædia of universal biography, but Leslie Stephen deemed the more limited form which the scheme assumed to be alone practicable.

In the autumn of 1882 this vast enterprise was begun. Mr. Stephen resigned the editorship of The Cornhill Magazine in order to devote himself exclusively to it.

The sixty-third and last volume of the original work appeared in July, 1900. It was found, however, that many names were accidentally omitted, and the supplement, now just completed, contains a thousand articles. These include biographies of distinguished persons who died at too late a date for the original work. When Queen Victoria died it was determined to make the period of time covered by the dictionary end on January 22, 1901.

Sidney Lee, to whom King Edward addresses his congratulations, was in 1883 appointed sub-editor under Mr. Stephen. In 1890 he was appointed joint editor, and a year later, on Mr. Stephen's retirement, owing to ill health, he became sole editor. The completed dictionary contains biographies of over 30,000 persons.

COMMUNICATIONS.

EXAGGERATION IN DEPARTMENT STORE ADVERTISING.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

Dear Sir: A recent advertisement of "Macy's" starts out with the following statement: "We sell books, as well as everything else, cheaper than any other store." This claim, it seems to me, needs a commentary. The "everything else" part of this claim is too general and is misleading, as "Macy's" and every other firm engaged in the same line of business knows. If "Macy's" had made an exact statement of "everything else" in their store, not especially mentioned in this advertisement, the claim would have read something like this: "We sell some books and some other goods cheaper than any other store. We sell some books and many other goods at the same prices as asked in other stores. We sell some books and many other goods for more than is asked in any other competitor's store." Such a statement would be true of "Macy's" as well as of every other department store.

Continuing, "Macy's" say, "The difference between our prices and the prices elsewhere is less on books than any other merchandise. Very often we charge only half the prices current in other stores. A third less is a fair average." Very likely they do occasionally sell goods for one-half their first selling price. That is on bargain or job lot sales; but every one of their competitors offer opportunities of this kind, so if they all do it, where is the especial glory?

But the last clause quoted from their advertisement is absolutely without foundation. If it means anything at all, it means that all of "Macy's" prices, averaged for their entire stock on the same articles, are 33 1-3 per cent. less than elsewhere.

There is no department store in New York whose gross profit is anything like 33 1-3 per cent. of their averaged retail prices.

If "Macy's" were doing what they claim, they would be selling all the time for less than cost, and paying their help and other expenses, including advertising, out of their pockets!

Do "Macy's" buy their goods cheaper than other stores to enable them to do what they claim? The writer, who is in a position to know something about it, believes that there is not 1 per cent. difference in the cost of the same goods in any of a dozen large stores in New York

Competition in both buying and selling is so keen that it is almost certain that "Macy's" average net profit on their total year's business is not 1 per cent. less, if any less, than a half dozen of their most formidable competitors.

The writer has been informed on good authority that "Macy's" percentage of profit on their total annual business is larger than that of other large department stores. It is even rumored that the Brooklyn store, under the same management, makes a smaller percentage than the New York store. If their goods cost practically the same as the stocks of other stores—and they most certainly do—then "Macy's" must either sell for higher prices on the average or pay their help less. The public will not be deceived by these exaggerations, nor by the silly attacks this firm is making on the American Publishers' Association for its endeavor to restore sane methods in the business of bookselling.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

NORWAY OPPOSES COPYRIGHT TREATY.

According to Associated Press despatches from Christiana the Norwegian press associations oppose the United States' proposed international copyright treaty, on the ground that there are irreconcilable differences in the copyright laws of the two countries.

OBITUARY NOTES.

Dr. Henry Clarke Houghton, whose "Lectures on Clinical Otology" are widely known, died in New York City on the 1st inst. He was born in Roxbury, Mass., January 22, 1837.

Professor Albrecht Fredrich Weber, the celebrated orientalist, died on the 1st inst. He was born in Breslau, February 17, 1825, and was the author of many books and periodical contributions on classical subjects.

The Rev. Joseph Henry Thayer, D.D., Bussey Professor Emeritus in the Harvard University Divinity School, died November 26. He was born in Boston, November 7, 1828. He wrote "Books and Their Use," "The Change of Attitude Toward the Bible," "A Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament," and "A Biographical Sketch of Ezra Abbot." He also translated a number of books and edited others.

John M. Whittemore, who died November 18, was the oldest stationer in Boston, Mass., having been in business on Washington and School Streets for over fifty years. Mr. Whittemore was in early life with the firm of Thomas Groom & Co., and commenced business for himself at 114 Washington Street under the style of Toppan & Whittemore, afterwards Toppan, Whittemore & Mason, and Whittemore, Niles & Hall. Mr. Whittemore erected the marble front building next the Journal building, where he did business under the style of J. M. Whittemore & Co., afterwards removing to School Street, where he retired from business in 1893.

Arthur Grissom, editor of the Smart Set, who died on the 3d inst. in New York City, was born in Payson, Ill., thirty-three years ago. He was the son of the Rev. William Grissom, of the Christian Church, and was educated at Woodland College, Independence, Mo., from which he was graduated in 1886. He early became a contributor of prose and verse to the juvenile periodicals. In 1889 Mr. Grissom removed to New York, and for some years was associated with Town Topics. He was also a contributor to Life, Truth, Leslie's Weekly and other magazines. For a brief period he edited the Marine Journal. In 1897 he started the Kansas City Independent, a weekly paper. Returning to New York early in 1900, he accepted the editorial charge of the Smart Set.

Joseph Fischer, a dealer in music at 7 Bible House, New York, died suddenly on November 25, in Springfield, O., at the home of his brother, the Rev. A. J. Fischer. Mr. Fischer was born at Muehlhausen, Prussia, sixty-one years ago. He came to this country when seventeen years of age, after which for thirty-five years he was a publisher of music at Dayton, Ohio. He came to New York in 1871, and succeeded in building up a large music publishing business, his specialty being organ scores for churches and schools.

John T. Ryan, for many years connected with the Cassell Publishing Company, died suddenly at his residence, 521 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., at noon, November 23. He was born in Ireland January 6, 1848, and was brought to this country by his parents in his infancy. In 1864 he entered the employ of Moses W. Dodd, the founder of the firm of Dodd, Mead & Co., with whom he remained until 1874, when he went to Boston to look after the manufacturing department of D. Lothrop & Co., and to represent the firm on the road. In 1877 he returned to New York to develop the manufacturing department of the American News Company. Under his direction the firm brought out those twelvemos, poets, juveniles, and sets that proved so enormously successful. In 1882 Mr. Ryan joined his old friend Oscar M. Dunham at Cassell, Petter, Galpin & Co.'s. He remained loyal to that firm and its successors to the last, burying with the Cassell Publishing Company everything but hope and that warm-hearted sympathy that made for John Ryan so many real friends. He was one of the earliest members and officers of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association—being the fourth to be admitted to membership. He was for years an officer of the Clover Club, of Brooklyn; Orator of Iolanthe Council, No. 318 Royal Arcanum; a member of the Knights of Columbus, the Knights of St. John and Malta.

THOMAS CLARKE LUBY of Fenian fame, died November 30, in Jersey City, N. J. He was born in Dublin, Ireland, January 15, 1822. He came to this country in 1863 to establish the American branch of the Fenian Brotherhood, and to take part in editing The Irish People. The paper had an important bearing on the development of revolutionary sentiment and was ultimately suppressed by the British Government. Mr. Luby who was at the time in Dublin, where the paper was published, was arrested, tried, and convicted of treason-felony, and sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment. He served five years of the term, first at Pentonville and then at Portland. In December, 1870, he was pardoned under Mr. Gladstone's Constitutional Amnesty bill, upon condition that he should go abroad and remain in exile for the remainder of the prescribed term. He first went to the Continent, and then came to this country. Here he became widely known as a lecturer and writer upon Irish subjects. His two best-known books are "The Life of Daniel O'Connell" and "The Lives of Illustrious and Representative Irishmen." He had no sympathy with the dynamite doctrine of the O'Donovan Rossa group of Nationalists, and vigorously denounced, whenever opportunity offered, the Phoenix Park murders, of which Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke were the victims. Of late years he had lived quietly at his home in Jersey City.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

OWING to the increased interest taken in aerial navigation Iliffe & Son, London, have decided to publish a quarterly magazine entitled Flying.

FRANK A. MUNSEY, the publisher of Munsey's Magazine, has recently bought the Washington Times, and the controlling interest in the New York Daily News.

RALPH HALL CAINE, a son of Hall Caine, has purchased Dickens's old magazine Household Words. The father is writing for the magazine an article on the Pope and Rome as he saw them while staying in the Eternal City.

AN alliance has just been formed between Frederick A. Stokes Company and the Frank Leslie Publishing House. The former has built up, since 1881, a successful and steadily increasing business in the publication of fiction, belles-lettres, nature books, children's books, illustrated gift-books, calendars, etc.; while the latter, established in 1855 as a periodical publishing house, has brought Frank Leslie's Popular Monthhly to a high degree of literary and artistic excellence. Frederic L. Colver, the president of the Leslie House, and Frederick A. Stokes, the president of the Stokes Company, have each purchased stock in the other's company. This combination of a powerful magazine of large circulation, with a list of books and art works by many of the most important authors and artists of the time, has obvious advantages; especially as each house will take a strong interest to and have a marked influence upon the artistic and commercial success of the other.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MRS. SARAH E. PHIPPS, washerwoman, of Rochester, N. Y., is considering an offer to dramatize her latest novel, "The Old House by the Sea."

THE REV. CHARLES GORE, Canon of Westminster since 1894, a theological writer of wide repute, and the editor of the well-known work "Lux Mundi," was appointed bishop of Worcester on the 7th ultimo.

ACCORDING to the "Dictionary of National Biography" Oscar Wilde wrote a kind of apology for his life while in prison the mss. amounting to about forty-five thousand words, that is now in the hands of his literary executor.

GEORGE ILES is engaged upon a book which will describe and illustrate some of the striking developments of modern invention and discovery, keeping to the vein, at once picturesque and philosophical, of his "Flame, Electricity and the Camera."

A. MAYNARD BARBOUR, the author of "The Award of Justice" and "That Mainwaring Affair," is not a man, as has been supposed until recently even by her publishers, Rand, McNally & Co., but the wife of Mr. W. James Barbour. Mrs. Barbour was born near Watertown, N. Y.. Her father, Dr. Fayette Maynard, was of French descent. Her mother was a cousin of Francis H. Underwood, one of the early editors of Atlantic Monthly. Left alone at an early age by the death of her parents, she spent some time in Geneva, N. Y., and then went to Helena, Mont., where she was in the employ of the United States Government until 1893 when she was married.

DR. EDWARD EVERETT HALE is writing "Memories of a Hundred Years" for The Outlook. Not that Dr. Hale can look back upon quite so many years of personal experience; but he has the rich diaries and letters of his father and grandfather, both men of prowess with the pen. "I live," he says, "in a large, old-fashioned house which is crowded from cellar to attic with letters and other manuscripts, with pamphlets and newspapers. Here are the diaries and correspondence of my own generation, of my father's and mother's, and of their father's and mother's. Boxes, drawers, cabinets, secretaries, closets, full of 'your uncle's papers,' or 'your grandfather's,' or his."

THE REV. DR. JAMES LUDLOW, pastor of the Munn Avenue Presbyterian Church of East Orange, N. J., the author of "The Captain of the Janissaries," "Deborah," and other historical novels, having been criticised by a member of his congregation for writing novels and talking about books in his pulpit, makes an excellent defense of himself as well as of his associates in the pulpit who have been engaged in the same practices. The very consideration of the morality of a minister writing novels is, he thinks, "to a well-rounded mind, humorous." To his mind there are two reasons why any minister must devote a part of his time to literature, critically or creatively. First, the minister who confines himself wholly and exclusively to theology is bound to grow narrow and incompetent. Second, without it he cannot any longer hold his congregation. "Unlike a man in any other profession, he has to hold the attention simultaneously of several hundred people of nearly all grades of intelligence. Now, the thinking men and women in a congregation are not going to be satisfied with exhortation. The appeal to them must come from a man who has travelled their ground and knows their levels. He must know not only theology, but something of science and the progress of art and of literature. But whether, having steeped himself so far as he can in all that is best in the world's literature, he have or have not contributed his own poor mite to that literature, in his leisure hours, does not seem a matter to incite impeachment, I should think!"

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—Henry A. Dickerman & Son are in more convenient quarters at 55 Franklin Street in the rooms formerly occupied by the American Book Company.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Earl Dumont, publisher, at 305 Dearborn Street, has confessed insolvency in the United States District Court by filing a petition in bankruptcy. Liabilities are placed at $256,095 and assets at $537,052, the latter consisting mostly of copyrights and trademarks and stock in trade at Chicago, St. Louis and Akron, Ohio.

DULUTH, MINN.—Lundberg & Stones's book and stationery store was totally destroyed by fire on November 16. Loss about $5,000.

EAU CLAIRE, WIS.—The Eau Claire Book and Stationery Company had a house warming on November 23, on the occasion of opening their handsome new store in the Drummond Block, next door to the post-office. The store was handsomely decorated, a full orchestra entertained the visitors and president Witherby, assisted by his large and able staff, made every one feel at home. The company absorbed the business of C. B. Walworth, and was incorporated in 1885 to do a general retail business in books, stationery and printing; but soon many other departments were added. In 1887 George C. Witherby was elected president and manager and thereafter the business steadily outgrew its old quarters at South Barstow Street notwithstanding the additions and extensions that were made from time to time to their building. In their new store they have a floor area of 16,000 feet with a basement running under their own store and under the entire post-office. Their book and stationery departments are just now threatening to absorb all the available space; the art and artists' goods department is full; the legal blank department makes a good showing, and their manufacturing departments are in full swing, so that it almost looks as though in a little while further space will be in demand.

JACKSON, MICH.—E. M. Foster has moved to No. 166 Main Street, West, into a store specially fitted up for his growing business.

LAS ANIMAS, CAL.—Mrs. R. W. Daniels has opened a book and stationery store here.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—T. H. Hard, bookseller, according to the American Stationer, "has filed a petition in bankruptcy, in which he lists 100 creditors with liabilities running from $1 to $200 each, and the aggregate is $4000 to $5000. Most of the creditors are stationery supply houses and book publishers. Assets nothing."

NEW YORK CITY.—Niel Morrow Ladd has opened a book store at 123 East Twenty-third Street, between Lexington and Fourth Avenues. He has a large stock of Americana, first editions, New York City items, engravings and a general miscellaneous stock. He will continue to act as purchasing agent for out-of-town collectors.

PEORIA, ILL.—The Richardson Book and Stationery Company that recently closed its business in Mattoon has opened a new and larger store here.

WAUKESHA, WIS.—Robert D. Townley, who for some years conducted a large drug and book business at Allentown, Ia., has bought Charles E. Nelson's drug and book store here and will remove to Waukesha at an early date.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

ANOTHER issue of the "Reference Catalogue of Current Literature"—the "English Trade List Annual"—is announced by J. Whitaker & Sons, Ltd.

A. C. MCCLURG & CO., Chicago, have published an "Illustrated Catalogue of Books, Standard and Holiday, 1901-1902." The catalogue contains 1113 pages, including an index of 186 pages, set in close nonpareil type. There are 27 distinct classifications of books, comprehending a total of 20,865 distinct titles and the names of 4,225 authors. The index alone contains 24,910 items. There are 212 illustrations from works catalogued, apart from 400 cover cuts and 19 head-pieces, making a total of 631. The catalogue weighs four pounds and retails for fifty cents.

Wissenschaftlich-Litterarische Selbstanzeigen und Inhaltsangaben deutscher Bücher is the title of a new bibliographic journal to be published weekly by Felix Dietrich, 11 Glockenstr., Leipzig. The journal will give in each issue a classified list of the important new books with explanatory, not critical, notes. Besides this list there will be given an index to reviews of the books that have been printed in German periodicals and newspapers; also, a classified index to monographs, essays, etc., contained in collected or individual works, in reports and publications of societies, etc., similar to the plan adopted in the "'A. L. A.' Index." The contents will be indexed every three months. The subscription price will be 3 marks the quarter year.

GEORGE WATSON COLE, Graham Court, New York City, has published for private distribution, under the title of "Bermuda and the Challenger Expedition," a bibliography giving a summary of the scientific results obtained by that expedition at and near Bermuda in 1873. Mr. Cole has performed, in a most creditable manner, a service of great usefulness to those interested in the natural history of the Bermudas, by bringing together references to the very considerable literature on the subject which, owing to the fact that much of it is scattered among many scientific periodicals, is not generally known, nor has it been brought to the attention of the student. Appended to the bibliography is a summary of results giving in tabulated form the soundings of H. M. S. Challenger at and off Bermuda, during the expedition. (16 p. 8°, pap.)

ELLIOT STOCK, London, has just issued "Book Prices Current" for the season of 1900-1901. Though the volume—the fifteenth of the series—does not contain so many entries as its predecessor, it is, nevertheless, more bulky. This is due to the fact that a large number of unusually rare books came into the market during the months of June and July, and these the editor very properly described in greater detail than would have been necessary had the books been more generally known. Inasmuch as a considerable number of the books recorded in this volume have never been seen in the auction rooms since "Book Prices Current" was started, and in all probability will not be seen again for many years, the purchaser of the volume will not be inclined to quarrel with either the editor or the publisher for unduly increasing the bulk of the volume. The season of 1900-1901, unlike that which preceded it, seems to have been a remarkable one, so far as the prices realized is concerned. In the season of 1899-1900 there came up in the auction rooms 38,151 lots, that realized £87,929. The present volume of "Book Prices Current" records 38,377 lots that fetched a total of £130,275 9*s.*, that is, an average of nearly $17 a lot—the highest ever recorded. This gives evidence that on the whole the value of old books is steadily advancing, and that when a collector is determined to possess a certain book the price it reaches in the auction room does not deter him, as witness the payment of such amounts as £1,720 for the first folio of Shakespeare's Plays; £1,550 for Caxton's "Ryall Book," and £1,475 for a copy of "Pilgrim's Progress," containing a portrait of the author which, some people think, appeared in only a few copies of the book when it was first published. Whether the portrait of Bunyan actually appeared in the edition or not is simply a matter of speculation, and therefore the amount paid, especially when contrasted with that realized for the Caxton, can only be described as fanciful in the extreme. That the collector's mood is fitful we note in the fact that the original editions of Kipling's various stories are now neglected, whereas a short time ago no price was considered exorbitant however absurdly high it appeared to the sober-minded collector. The collectors of the works of Dickens, Thackeray and Cruikshank seem to have vanished; nor do the Kelmscott books, with the exception possibly of the Chaucer, meet with the enthusiastic reception that they received a short time ago. However, speaking generally, old books are still in demand and command good prices. The best among them having naturally enough enhanced considerably in value, especially during the last half of the nineteenth century; and they are aided in this respect, as Mr. Slater, the editor, points out, "by the new century, which, in imagination, has suddenly aged them by a hundred years."

The make-up of the volume is the same as in former years, which prompts us to endorse the demand made by a reviewer in The Library that notice should be taken hereafter in the index of the binder, the printer and the illustrator of those volumes the price of which often depends upon one or the other of the features mentioned. In France, for instance, a fine binding has often given a value to a worthless book with which first editions of Molière, or specimens of early French printing, can scarcely compete. English and American collectors are following on the same road. Issues from the presses of the early printers are always in demand, yet rarely are the printers of 16th, 17th and 18th centuries named. So with the illustrators of the same period whose engravings give to many books their chief value; one looks in vain for their names in these records. Information of these three elements which frequently influence book prices would be desirable, and should be given whenever occasion presents itself. (47 +788 p. 8°, cl., £1 7*s.* 6*d.*)

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—American Law Book Co., Americus, Ga., Americana, and miscellaneous. (No. 3, 16 p. 8°.)—Joseph Baer & Co., 6 Hochstr., Frankfurt, a. M., Handel, Finanz u. Industrie. (No. 449, 529 titles;) also, Ostasien. (No. 447, 698 titles;) also Christliche kunst von den ersten Anfängen bis zum ausgange des Mittelalters. (No. 448, 1171 titles.)—Edward Baker, 14 John Bright St., Birmingham, Eng., Miscellaneous. (No. 205, 694 titles.)—Karl W. Hiersemann, 3 Königsstr., Leipzig, Nationaloekonomie. LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

MR. SIDNEY APPLETON, who represents his firm in London, is on his way to New York where he will remain until shortly after the holidays.

THE CENTURY COMPANY will publish at once a new volume of verse and prose by Richard Watson Gilder entitled "Poems and Inscriptions."

THE R. G. NEWBEGIN COMPANY,, 66 Reade Street, New York, announce that they have made arrangements with Mark Twain to publish a uniform edition of his complete works.

BRENTANO'S have just issued "The Margate Mystery," a detective story, by Burford Delannoy; also, "Bitter Fruit," a strong story by Mrs. Lovett Cameron, author of "A Vain Sacrifice," etc.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just published a novel entitled "The Princess Cynthia," by Marguerite Bryant, with illustrations by George R. Havelka. The scene is laid in a mythical kingdom of the old world.

WILLIAM F. BRAINARD, for some years with D. C. Heath & Co., has taken charge of the publication department of D. Appleton & Co., succeeding Mr. E. S. Appleton, the vice-president of the company, who goes to Chicago to take charge of the western department of the firm.

BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY have just ready "Dream Children," edited and illustrated by Elizabeth B. Brownell, giving selections from the works of the great writers referring to children; and "The Story of Live Dolls," by Josephine Scribner Gates, with illustrations by Virginia Keep.

SIR GEORGE DOUGLAS has written a book on Thomas Hardy in which he expresses the opinion that when the present generation has passed away and the literary historian of two or three generations hence comes to deal with the literature of our day he will write of it as "the Hardy age."

AN evening class in bookbinding, for men and women, was opened at the Evelyn Nordhoff Bindery, 114 East Twenty-third Street, New York, on the third inst. Instruction will be given by Miss Florence Foote, pupil of T. J. Cobden Sanderson, London, on Tuesdays and Fridays from 7 to 10 P.M.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have published a new edition of Dorothy Quigley's charming book for children, "Everybody's Fairy Godmother." They have also just ready "Nine Unlikely Tales for Children," by E. Nesbit. The tales are "unlikely" because they involve children, birds and animals in all sorts of fantastical episodes and escapades.

THE REV. EDWARD C. HORN, Alliance, Neb., has published a neatly-gotten up book entitled "The Mazes and Marvels of Wind Cave." The book deals with that part of the Black Hills embracing Hot Springs, Wind Cave, Sylvan Lake, and everything pertaining to them of interest to the travelling public. It contains half-tone cuts of twenty-eight objects of special interest.

F. N. MORRIS, 171 Madison Street, Chicago, has purchased the entire edition of a work on "Anarchy and Anarchists," by Michael J. Schaack, Captain of Police in Chicago. The work, which has heretofore not been obtainable through the trade channels, contains a record of the famous trial of the anarchists in Chicago, and traces the history of socialism and anarchism in all countries.

E. F. BONAVENTURE, 45 West Thirty-first Street, New York, is exhibiting a number of fine bindings by such masters as Pomey, Canape, Chambolle, Gruel, Riviere, Zaehnsdorf, Stikeman, Ruban, Roger Payne, Capé, Lortic, Mathews and others equally well known to collectors. The exhibition, which is the tenth held by Mr. Bonaventure, will be open to the public until the 9th inst.

THE Omar Khayyam craze is extending to France, where a prospectus has just been issued by a Paris bookseller of a translation of "Les Quatrains" from the ms. preserved at the Bodleian, with introduction and notes by Charles Grolleau. This new translation, which is to be limited to 500 copies, promises to give the French public for the first time "la véritable physionomie d'Omar Khâyyâm."

IT having been reported that an English firm was preparing a reprint of Darwin's "Origin of Species," in view of the approaching expiration of copyright of the first edition, Mr. Murray announces that the edition which passes out of copyright this month is an imperfect edition which was subsequently thoroughly revised by Mr. Darwin. The authorized complete edition does not lose copyright for several years to come.

NATHAN HASKELL DOLE, at Glen Road, Jamaica Plain, Mass., solicits subscriptions for a limited edition of a Greek translation, by A. E. Crawley of Bradfield College, Berkshire, Eng., of the "Rubaiyat" of Omar Khayyam," to be printed with the English version by Edward Fitzgerald, according to the fifth recension. The book will be printed at the Merrymount Press, 150 copies on hand-made paper and 25 copies on Japan vellum.

THE BROTHERS OF THE BOOK, Gouverneur, N. Y., of which Laurence C. Woodworth is the scrivener, have brought out "Some Children's Book-plates," by Wilbur Macey Stone, the publication of which has been delayed in order to make the book more elaborate than was first planned. The little book is very attractively gotten up and illustrated with a number of children's book plates printed on Japan paper and mounted on separate leaves in the book.

E. V. LUCAS who is preparing an extensive edition of Charles Lamb's works, has discovered a child's book by Lamb hitherto overlooked. It is entitled "The King and Queen of Hearts, with the Rogueries of the Knave who stole the Queen's Pies. Illustrated in fifteen elegant engravings. London: Printed for M. J Godwin, at the Juvenile Library, No. 41, Skinner Street, Snow Hill; and to be had of all Booksellers, 1809. Price 1*s*. Plain, or 1*s*. 6*d*. coloured."

THE printed sheets of "Piers Plowman," announced by the Elston Press, established by Clarke Conwell over a year ago, having been destroyed by fire, a second printing will be necessary and a consequent delay in delivering the book. Mr. Conwell also announces for publication before the holidays an edition of 200 copies of "A Tale of Gamelyn" (XIVth century;) and an edition of 250 copies of Shakespeare's "Sonnets." Mr. Conwell's address is The Elston Press, Pelham Road, New Rochelle, N. Y.

THE members of the publishing trade who were represented at the Pan-American Exhibition at Buffalo, and received prizes are D. Appleton & Co., a gold medal; Funk & Wagnalls Company, a silver medal; and Doubleday, Page & Co., a bronze medal. The following bookbinders also received prizes: S. C. Toof & Co., Memphis, Tenn., a silver medal; and James Macdonald, and Minnie Sophia Pratt, both of New York, each a bronze medal. The South American printers, lithographers and bookbinders came in for a goodly share of the honors.

THE DE BURIANS, a club of gentlemen in Bangor, Me., who are interested in books and the history of American literature, and whose patron saint is De Bury, the author of "The Philoblion," have published a book entitled "Peter Edes and His Diary," which, besides matters historical, contains a certain amount of information relating to early printing and bookselling in New England—Edes having been one of the first printers who settled in what was then known as the new district of Maine. Mr. S. L. Boardman, literary editor of the Bangor Daily Commercial, is one of the leading spirits of the club.

J. B. MILLET COMPANY, Boston, announce a series of volumes on Japan to comprise twelve quarto volumes. The text will appear for the first time, and will deal with the history of the country, its arts, sciences, laws, manners, customs, religions and literature. Captain F. Brinkley, who has resided in Tokyo for thirty-five years, will edit the work. The volumes will be sumptuously illustrated with paintings on cut velvet and silk, also with charming paintings in water color and lacquer. Additional illustrations will comprise rare old prints, xylographs, collotypes and hand-colored photographs of life and scenery.

JOHN LANE will publish shortly a new book by Annie Besant entitled "Esoteric Christianity, or, the Lesser Mysteries," which is considered to be the ablest defense of theosophy thus far brought forward. Mr. Lane also announces for early publication an edition of one hundred copies of a gift book by Thomas R. Way (the black and white artist,) entitled "Ancient Royal Palaces in and near London," which will have twenty-four full-page lithographs by Mr. Way and descriptive notes by Frederic Chapman. He has just ready in the New Pocket Library "Dr. Thorne," by Anthony Trollope.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS have just added to their attractive Century Library edition of Dickens's novels, "A Tale of Two Cities," and "The Uncommercial Traveller." This edition may be had in cloth, in limp leather and in leather boards, each with gilt top. The limp leather and leather boards styles have an etched frontispiece and a bookmark. They have also just brought out in a style similar to the Century Library, in one volume, "'The Pilgrim's Progress,' 'The Holy War,' and 'Grace Abounding,'" by John Bunyan. The volume is printed from long primer type on Nelson's India Paper, and is neatly bound in cloth boards with gilt top.

THE Société d'Editions Artistiques, 5 Rue des Mathurins, Paris, have established an American branch in Philadelphia, (P. O. box 461,) and announce the issue of an English translation of the "Secret Memoirs of the Courts of Europe," originally written for private circulation only. The series includes the memoirs of the courts of France, Germany, Austria, Russia, and Italy, by members of the courts themselves, or by others who had intimate personal knowledge of the schemes, plots, jealousies, quarrels, amours, and other incidents described which have not hitherto appeared in print. The edition will be limited and exquisitely illustrated by distinguished artists.

HERBERT S. STONE & Co. are about to publish "The Book of One Hundred Houses," which aims to show that beauty may be as easily secured in a small city house or a cottage in the country as in the most pretentious mansion—that size does not necessarily mean comfort, nor grandeur livableness. For the palace and the shelter it preaches the doctrine of fitness and simplicity, and its theories are carried into practice in the pictures of many attractive and lovely homes. They have in preparation a novel by H. C. Chatfield-Taylor, the scene of which will be laid in France at the time of the Franco-Prussian War; also, a new novel by George Barr McCutcheon, the author of the very successful novel, "Graustark."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have completed a report of their publications of the year, showing a total of 122 volumes published, exclusive of special subscription editions. Of this number 25 were fiction, 23 art and general science, 20 history and biography, 9 religious, 8 poetical, and 37 general literature. Of the latter subdivision 18 are volumes which might be classed as standard works. There were two surprises during the year in the way of books which circulated far in excess of the hopes of publishers and authors. One of these was "7,000 Words Often Mispronounced," by W. H. P. Phyfe, which has sold more than 55,000 copies. The other is a poetical work, which has had the phenomenal run of 25,000 copies—Drummond's "The Habitant."

THE four books on the Scribner list that have been running very strongly have all made distinct advances in circulation, showing the permanence of their selling qualities. The record stands now as follows: "The Cavalier," by George W. Cable, 65th thousand; "Lives of the Hunted," by Ernest Seton-Thompson, 70th thousand; "The Ruling Passion," by Henry Van Dyke, 50th thousand; and "Amos Judd," by J. A. Mitchell, with colored illustrations by Keller, 35th thousand. These figures, making a total of 220,000, have all been earned since October 1st when the earliest of them, "The Cavalier," was published. "The Ruling Passion" was published October 12, and the other two October 19.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY announces for publication in the Spring of 1902 new fiction by the following well-known authors: Frances Hodgson Burnett, Samuel H. Church, Alfred Henry Lewis, John Oliver Hobbes (Mrs. Craigie), Max Pemberton, Charles G. D. Roberts, Theodore Burt Sayre and Charles R. Sherlock. In addition to these works they are to have a new novel by a hitherto unknown American writer, Orton Lisle. Great expectations of success are held for this book, which is to be a long tale of Ephesus and Rome in the first century A.D. Frederick H. Seymour, the clever originator of "Yutzo," has just completed for the Stokes Company a new volume entitled "Son," which is to be a companion to "Yutzo" in many ways, and yet is to be a new departure both in make-up and in the form of the aphorisms.

DESPITE the fact that "Truth Dexter" was published last spring it continues to be one of the best selling novels in many of the larger cities. In Boston, where the scene of Sidney McCall's much discussed story is, in part, laid, "Truth Dexter" sells second only to "The Right of Way" a new fall book. The discussion over the identity of the authorship continues apace. The publishers, Little, Brown & Co., refuse to disclose the identity of Sidney McCall, who appears to have been equally familiar with Boston social life and plantation life in Alabama. Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton claims the author to be Hildegarde Hawthorn. The publishers refuse to deny or affirm this, a position which they took when Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was alleged to have been the author, contenting themselves with printing additional 5,000 editions of the book.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish shortly a volume on "Mental Growth and Control," by Dr. Nathan Oppenheim, author of "The Development of the Child," in which the author's purpose is to explain in a manner so simple that even the youthful reader will understand him, the make-up of the central nervous system and its influence on the development and control of mental activity. They have nearly ready a volume by Dr. James H. Canfield, librarian of Columbia University, entitled "The College Student and His Problems," which is full of sound, wise and pithy advice on all pertinent topics of college life, from the choice of the college itself and the kinds of work and play and social intercourse to be pursued there to the choice of a career at its end. Dr. Canfield's long experience with educational matters as Secretary and President of the National Educational Association, as Professor of History in the University of Kansas, Chancellor of the University of Nebraska, President of the Ohio State University, and Librarian of Columbia University, have given him an unusually wide acquaintance with the actual life and needs of college students, hence he is in a position to speak most intimately on his subject.

PICK-UPS.

NOWADAYS.—She (in a whisper): "That little man we are passing is Robertson Stunter. He was one of the best-known authors in the country once." "Strange that I don't remember him." "But that was three or four months ago."—Life.

OVERHEARD IN A BOOKSHOP.—A noted college president, famous both as a divine and wit, calling the attention of the bookseller to "The Arrows of the Almighty," said that one of the literary papers lately reviewed this under the title "Errors of the Almighty."

HE WENT OFF.—Frederick H. Cowles, Vice-President of the General Supply Company, was busily engaged writing at his desk the other day, when, before he was conscious of anybody being near him, a tall cadaverous looking man with a wild look in his eye and carrying an odd shaped satchel dropped into a chair beside him and gingerly placed the satchel on the floor, and without prelude or introduction he began in a hoarse whisper:

"Interested in explosives?"

Mr. Cowles shifted about in his chair uneasily and looked longingly toward the door.

The strange man got up and started to pace the floor, then he turned suddenly on Mr. Cowles, who was making frantic efforts to reach the bell on one side of his desk without attracting attention.

"Only $150," continued the man impressively. There was a brief pause. "Only $150 for a complete set of George Billings's magnificently illustrated history entitled 'From Gunpowder to Lyddite.'" Then he started to reel off his stereotyped prospectus, but before he had gotten well under way he was escorted from the room by a burly porter.—New York Times.

AN AUDACIOUS BOOKSELLER.—In a collection which George Russell has been making of stories of avarice—that "good old-gentlemanly vice"—he prints the following of Lord A——:

"He was a bookbuyer on the largest scale, and every one praised his noble love of literature, contrasting so favorably with the vulgar extravagances of the race-course and the gaming-table. He always made his purchases through a London bookseller, whom we will call Mr. B——, and one day B—— presented himself at the country seat of his noble patron, when the following dialogue ensued:

"Mr. B.—'There is a great sale of books in Paris next week, my Lord, and I feel that I ought to be there.'

"Lord A.—'Quite right, B. If you come across anything really good, let me know.'

"Mr. B.—'I will, my Lord; and I hope your Lordship will excuse my mentioning the fact that your account with me now runs into three figures. It would be extremely convenient to me if your Lordship could settle it before I go to the sale.'

"Lord A.—'And do you mean that you have the audacity to tell me to my face that you propose to go to Paris and speculate with MY money?' (ringing the bell): 'John, show this person out of the house.'

"Thus spoke at once a noble taste for culture and a generous indignation against the misuse of money."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents a line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Books Published During November by

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY

ILLUSTRATED BOOKS

Old Time Gardens

A Book of 'The Sweet o' the Year'

Newly set forth by ALICE MORSE EARLE, author of "Home Life in Colonial Days," "Child Life in Colonial Days," etc. Profusely illustrated from photographs collected by the author. Cloth, crown 8vo, $2.50 net; postage, 20 cents.

Limited edition. 350 numbered copies, with extra plates, $20 net.

Italian Sculpture of the Renaissance

By L. J. FREEMAN, M.A.

Illustrated with forty-five full-page plates. Cloth, 8vo, $3.00 net; postage, 18 cents.

Quite a little running comment on the tendencies of art in general and especially of sculpture, tending to stimulate the sense imagination rather than the literary.

Chivalry

By F. WARRE CORNISH, M.A.

Vice-Provost of Eton. With 27 illustrations. Cloth, cr. 8vo, $1.75

The sixth volume of the admirable library known as The Social England Series, including among other volumes, Rowbotham's "Troubadours," Inderwick's "The King's Peace," etc.

Mexico as I Saw It

By MRS. ALEC TWEEDIE

Author of "Through Finland in Carts," etc. Freely illustrated from original photographs, and with water-color sketches. Cloth, 8vo, $5.00 net.

Mrs. Tweedie has chosen a splendid field for her characteristic and valuable book. She was present at the latest Aztec excavations, one of the richest finds ever made in Mexico, and has much to say of President Diaz.

The Making of an American

An Autobiography

By JACOB A. RIIS

Author of "How the Other Half Lives," etc., etc. Profusely illustrated. Cloth, 8vo, $2.00 net, postage 25 cents.

As a study of city conditions no American should neglect this graphic story.

George Washington

A Biography

By NORMAN HAPGOOD

Author of "Abraham Lincoln: The Man of the People," etc. With interesting portraits and facsimiles. Half leather, gilt top, crown 8vo, $1.75 net; postage, 16 cents.

MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS

Principles of Political Economy

By J. SHIELD NICHOLSON

Vol. III. Cloth, 8vo, $3.00 net; postage 20c.

The concluding volume of a standard work.

The Anthracite Coal Industry

By PETER ROBERTS, Ph.D.

A Study of the Economic Conditions and Relations of the Co-operative Forces in the Development of the Anthracite Coal Industry of Pennsylvania. With an Introduction by W. G. Sumner, LL.D., Professor of Political and Social Science, Yale University. Cloth, 8vo, with tables and diagrams. $3.50 net; postage, 20c.

Especially valuable are his chapters on the social side of the labor question in the mining regions.

Municipal Administration

By JOHN A. FAIRLIE, Ph.D.

Asst. Professor of Administrative Law, University of Michigan. Cloth, $3.00 net; postage, 19 cents.

Municipal history, branches of municipal activity, municipal finance, and sketches of the existing systems of municipal organization indicate the parts into which the exceptionally comprehensive book is divided.

Time Table of Modern History

A. D. 400-1870. $3.50 net

Compiled and arranged by M. MORRISON

It contains parallel dates of events, tables of genealogies, ruling monarchs, and a general parallel dated chart of ancient and modern history. It is a work which should prove invaluable to school teachers, editors, librarians, etc. Ready in a few days.

"Books published at NET prices are sold by booksellers everywhere at the advertised NET prices. When delivered from the publishers, carriage, either postage or expressage, is an extra charge."

The Third Edition, now in press, will bring the total up to 40,000

The latest reports from book and department stores from New York to Chicago show that it is the best selling juvenile of the year. Denslow's art and Denslow's name have made it so.

It is the best work that Denslow has ever done. This means that it is the best book of its kind ever printed.

Its pages are one long series of happy conceptions, interpreting the most worthy of the merry jingles in a way that no other artist has approached.

The book will support these statements. It will attract attention on any counter and sell in any store. Its appeal is universal.

A GREAT NOVEL OF ADVENTURE

The Firebrand

By S. R. CROCKETT

With three heroes that Dumas might have created and a field that he would have coveted. It is a dashing romance of the Carlist rebellion in Spain, which fully carries out the promise of Crockett's first great novel, "The Raiders."

THE STORY OF

Madam Du Barry

THE MISTRESS OF LOUIS XV.

Translated from the French of JEAN DE LA HIRE

By GEORGE MOREHEAD

12mo, 160 pp. Illustrated. Paper cover, 25c.

We have just issued this wonderful story, and the fact that Mrs. Leslie Carter, the favorite American actress, having selected Madam du Barry as the central figure of her new play, the story of her life and adventures becomes a topic of interest to American readers.

The story of her life forms an excellent picture of French society in the eighteenth century, with its pleasures, its intrigues, its elegances, its crimes, and its virtues. It is a life replete with adventure and romance, commencing with the favor and love of the king and ending on the guillotine. This work will have a large sale, and every dealer should order copies at once. It is No 133 of The Peerless Series, but it can not be mailed at one cent per pound as heretofore.

The Trade is supplied by all News Companies, Jobbers, and Wholesale Dealers, or send your order direct to

A POWERFUL NOVEL.

The Romance of Gilbert Holmes.

By MARSHALL MONROE KIRKMAN.

SELLING BY THOUSANDS.

"The Romance of Gilbert Holmes" will find a permanent place in twentieth century literature. It is remarkable for the purity of its English; its choice and rhythmic diction; its profound character analyses, and its charming nature descriptions - unsurpassed in our language. The exquisite love story that runs through its pages makes the book appeal to the taste and sympathy of all mankind.

The author is the first writer to enshrine our national heroes, Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis, in the legendary lore of our country; to portray them free from the incrustations and scars of politics; to speak of them as they were—tender and true; to reach their inner lives, showing their lofty and ideal aspirations. He strips from them the cerements in which superficial writers and the cold historian have hidden their personality. He speaks of Lincoln as the poet and man, and of Davis in his youth, as the magnificent and chivalrous soul he was. So, too, he portrays the renowned Sac Chieftain, Black Hawk, in colors as vivid as those Cooper would have used.

"The daring venture of introducing these men in a romance has been crowned with success.' —The Philadelphia Press.

"Told with captivating power."—Rt. Rev. WILLIAM E. MCLAREN, Bishop of Chicago.

"A Thanatopsis in Prose."—Boston Post.

"Chaste, pure, elegant."—New York Times.

"Of surpassing interest."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

PUBLISHERS:

THE WORLD RAILWAY PUBLISHING CO., Chicago.

The English Exploration of America.

We are living in a new period of expansion and great changes on the map of the world, such as there has not been since the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. It is interesting, at such a time, to look back to the period when our forefathers expanded into this New World.

THE FOLLOWING OLD SOUTH LEAFLETS HAVE BEEN ADDED TO THE SERIES:

"John Cabot's Discovery of North America," "Sir Francis Drake on the California Coast," "Frobisher's First Voyage," "Sir Humphrey Gilbert's Expedition to Newfoundland," "Raleigh's First Roanoke Colony," "Gosnold's Settlement at Cuttyhunk," "Captain John Smith's Description of New England," and Richard Hakluyt's Discourse on Western Painting."

These leaflets are Nos. 115–122 in the Old South series, which is now so large. They are made up from original documents of the period, and are all accompanied by careful historical and bibliographical notes. Sold for five cents a copy, they place at the service of the schools and the public a most important mass of historical papers not otherwise easily accessible.

AN EXQUISITE CHRISTMAS GIFT

D'RI AND I

150th THOUSAND

By IRVING BACHELLER, Author of "EBEN HOLDEN"
Eight Drawings by F. C. YOHN. Price, $1.50

Hon. JOHN HAY (Secretary of State) says:
"IT IS A MOST VIVID AND ENGROSSING STORY, WORTH TELLING AND WELL TOLD."

Hon.
GEORGE F. HOAR
(U. S. Senator)
says:

"I HAVE read it with great pleasure and approval. Your pictures of the Yankee countrymen of the elder generation have nothing of exaggeration or caricature in them. I was born and bred among such people in old Concord."

NEW YORK TIMES
Saturday Review
says:

"D'RI, a mighty hunter, has the same dry humor as Uncle Eb. He fights magnificently on the Lawrence, and both he and Ramon were among the wounded when Perry went to the Niagara. Mr. Bacheller describes the scene, the furious courage of the men, so weak with wounds that they wept, yet cheering and shouting in a delirium of patriotism; and the passage settles once for all the question as to whether or not he can produce true literature."

"We wer both near breaking down."

Rev. T. DeWITT TALMAGE says:

"I WISH every young man and woman might read it for the lesson of its love motive. It makes you see clearly the difference between true and false love: you feel the peril of the one, the beauty of the other. All who are approaching that supreme moment upon which a word may change their destiny for good or evil, may get wisdom out of this book."

PHILADELPHIA HOME ADVOCATE
says:

"GOD gives us now and then a man who can write so charmingly as to make us forget all else save the magic beauty and delight of his words. It is a rare faculty and a gift that is, indeed, a priceless treasure to all mankind. American fiction to-day cannot produce another author who has such a natural and easy ability to fascinate and entrance as Irving Bacheller, author of 'Eben Holden' and of 'D'ri and I.'"

Her First Appearance

By RICHARD HARDING DAVIS

This is easily the best of Mr. Davis' short stories. It tells of a tiny little girl on the stage, how she made the hit of the piece, and finally quite ununconsciously comes into her own. The volume is printed in blue and gold with pictures and page decorations in color by Ashe and Gibson.

FOUR GREAT NOVELS

The Right of Way

BY GILBERT PARKER

The best-selling book in the United States. It is a vivid, dramatic story of French Canadian life. Readers have recognized it not only as Mr. Parker's best work, but as the best work of any novelist in many years.

Illustrated. $1.50

Cardigan

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

This is a rattling good Indian story of days just before the Revolution. The scene is the frontier of New York and Western Pennsylvania. There is lots of exciting incident and a love interest that is one of the most original in recent fiction.

Illustrated. $1.50

The Portion of Labor

BY MARY E. WILKINS

Miss Wilkins' greatest novel. The scene is New England. The story tells of the life and development of a young American girl in a small factory town. The contrast between her character and her surroundings results in incidents and situations of most intense human and dramatic power.

Illustrated. $1.50

Flood-Tide

By SARAH P. McLEAN GREENE

A great novel by the author of "Vesty of the Basins." The scene is in a little village on the Maine coast. It is an intensely human story of the every day life — the loves, passions, and intrigues of the simple fisherfolk of this region, full of true pathos and real humor.

Illustrated. $1.50
